

A Piccoli Passi Minori non accompagnati e Cittadinanza Attiva In Small Steps Unaccompanied minors and Active Citizenship

by Lucia De Marchi, Infinito Edizioni (May 2017)

Migrations, and in particular those related to unaccompanied minors should not only be considered as flows to be monitored, but as complex phenomena that it is necessary to deeply understand their dynamics.

This publication resumes a fieldwork in several Italian cities, analyzing the relationships of these minors with the main stakeholders: communities, schools and the world of work.

From this research, various difficulties have arisen in training on active citizenship these minors, both because of the shortage of human resources and the lack of adequate funding. Moreover, national and local legislation obstructs their effective integration with various bureaucratic cavils. The transition to the older age becomes very critical and the minors are at risk of isolation and of becoming clandestine.

The evidences of the data analysis were elaborated into a reflexivity process, which aims to define a theoretical framework for the elaboration of an educational proposal on active citizenship. According to Amartya Sen, for enhance the human well-being it is necessary that everyone could act their capabilities.

Thus, in this publication, it is promoted a training for the empowerment of the personal capabilities not only for unaccompanied minors, but also for the operators (educators, social assistants, teachers, volunteers), who take care of them, to endorse the sustainability of the active welfare in the global village.

Index:

The world in which we are living
How many are we going to be?
What is it the poverty?
The child poverty

Migrant minors, a river of small steps
The international migration
Unaccompanied minors
Children alone

Minors in the Limbo
The busillis of reception in Italy
What about integration in Italy?
The adults and the lack of data

Active Citizenship and Unaccompanied minors

Complexus. Weaving together various threads

Bibliography

Short biography:

Lucia De Marchi, Ph.D in Educational Sciences, Ca' Foscari University in Venice. My research aims to study the reality of unaccompanied minors and their training to active citizenship. In general, my topics of research is the child protection, with particular regard to migrant minors. In 2008, by Erasmus project I went in Bucharest and studied the reality of street children by a stage at Parada Foundation. At the moment, I am a independent researcher and a trainer on intercultural issues.

Contacts: info@luciademarchi.it; FB, IN, Academia.edu; FB group: Minori Stranieri Non Accompagnati. Accoglienza, Formazione, Integrazione